These are my links for February 13th through February 14th:

- * The Royal Gazette - US legislation to close 'tax havens'; will come, but we'll be ready vows Premier of Bermuda
- * Darling declines to rule out Lloyds nationalisation - Why not say it's highly likely?
- * It seems mad but Labour really did ask its Sirs to apply their genius to public policy and finance - "When historians come to judge the least edifying patronage scandal of recent years, it will not be cash for honours, which anyone with half a brain realised has been happening since time immemorial. No, they will surely settle on financial collapse for honours, the enchanting outreach programme whereby bankers were given baubles, government jobs and taskforces to chair, on the basis that extremely rich men must be right (I paraphrase slightly)."
- * Noble Corporation to Hold Shareholders' Meeting to Vote On Proposed Change in Place of Incorporation - They're running away from Cayman
