

A note to all commentators on this blog

It's been a gruelling few weeks in the run up to the G20.

The G20 was gruelling.

I'm taking the weekend and maybe a day or two at the start of next week off to tackle my sorely neglected garden.

So if comments do not go on the blog for a while please don't send me threatening emails of complaint — every man is allowed a little time off his blog.

And please don't expect me to reply to comments made — I very much doubt I will be doing so.
