Amused to note the above says:

The organized hard core nihilists at Tax Justice et al and the college kids who are their dupes oppose free trade and capitalism, claiming these hurt the poor of the world.

When you have to weave double works of fiction (a) that TJN opposes trade when we don't - we just argue that tax havens not be allowed to distort it and b) that unfettered trade through tax havens does not harm developing countries when it is so clear that it does) you know the opposition are rattled.

It's very obvious now that they really know the game is over.
