Marty Sullivan of Tax Analysts is speaking at the Task Force. He has said:

- * Full and automatic exchange of tax information must be our standard. We must make clear on request data is not good enough.
- * Tax Information Exchange Agreements are not glass half full offerings — they just about damp the glass. The OECD is not helping by claiming these things are a success — they are saying we are making progress without solving any of the real issues.
- * There are unstable and corrupt governments. So they have to be taken out of the system. But they're the exception not the norm.

I agree.
