Gordon Brown plans new spending splurge - Times Online.

GORDON BROWN is planning a final public spending spree to help pull the economy out of recession and put pressure on the Conservatives over their plans for deep cuts.

The prime minister is keen to use the autumn pre-budget statement to announce a new "fiscal stimulus", with billions of pounds of extra money for housing, infrastructure projects and training.

Since this is the ONLY way out of recession he's finally got things right.

Pity it's taken so long. But better late than never.
