Unequal Britain: richest 10% are now 100 times better off than the poorest | Society | guardian.co.uk

A detailed and startling analysis of how unequal Britain has become offers a snapshot of an increasingly divided nation where the richest 10% of the population are more than 100 times as wealthy as the poorest 10% of society.

Let's be blunt: that's unsustainable. This is a recipe for social breakdown.

I don't want that.

It's why I demand change.

Part of that change will reduce the monetary wealth of the richest. It has to.
