

The madness of David Cameron

Listening to the leader's debate.

Cameron is really mad.

Try the logic:

- 1) He'll cut government spending. This will reduce the size of the state and public sector.
- 2) This will increase unemployment.
- 3) He will cut benefits and refuse it to people who won't work
- 4) But he's ensuring there will be no work

In which case he's actually saying he guarantees there will be an increase in poverty.

Nice!

Or mad.
