Get a grip over at the FT, I suggest.

To claim that "CGT rise first big test for Cameron coalition" is ludicrous.

The world economy falling apart all around it whilst the ConDems put in place policies designed to ensure we have a depression in the UK will be the first BIG test for the coalition.

CGT is a minor spat in comparison.

One they have to win, of course.

But let's keep a sense of perspective. Tax due on second homes is a non-issue compared to the devastation of millions of lives - which is what the ConDems are promising.
