Whilst I was in Jersey I was interviewed by Mike Dunn, who runs a blog called Voice of Protest on which he has run a series on faith and finance.

Mike videoed the interview. If you don't like people talking about faith, please don't bother to watch — but I should say straight away there's a lot more about Jersey and offshore on here than anything to do with my faith, which as I say, is something I feel no obligation to evangelise. For me that is always a personal decision, and I have no desire to interfere with another person's opinion upon it.

That said, these are the videos he made:
