

I'm not applying for the job

There was a letter in the Saturday edition of the Jersey Evening Post from a person who, as far as I know I do not know, suggesting I'd make an ideal Chief Minister for Jersey.

I guess for the sake of the peace of mind of Philip Ozouf, who clearly sees himself as a shoe-in for the job when Terry le Sueur retires from Jersey politics later this year, I should make clear that I'm not interested. Apart from also noting one or two minor logistical obstacles in the path to taking on the task!

Which is not to say I'm endorsing Philip Ozouf - who lacks almost all the necessary qualities to do the job. As the JEP's correspondent was, I am sure, aware.
