

Enough!

Sometimes every one needs a day off.

It's half term.

I'm taking tomorrow and maybe even the weekend off (but I'll decide on that at the time)

So if I don't moderate comments please don't rant about it.

I've got a duty to be a Dad too, sometimes. And we're going cycling in the forest - a Forestry Commission forest - that might still belong to the nation, I hope, when they come to do the same with their children.

So this is also a quiet note of thanks to all who protested at their proposed sale and made this government see the foolishness of their ways.
