

Find a job or lose benefits

The callousness of the ConDems approach to welfare appals me

I make no claim to have a solution to the welfare payment issue: I make the simple observation that the system is messy because so too is the real world.

But then along come the Tories saying "get a job or we'll cut your benefits".

Haven't they noticed they're increasing unemployment rapidly - especially for women who are key target for their welfare abuse?

Sickening

But all so easy to know nothing about when daddy buys you your internship and meal ticket for life.
