I noted today that an article in the Telegraph on the Isle of Man and information exchange had mysteriously disappeared from the web.

But now it's back again I'm pleased to say.

I gather that it was thought that the article had been published before the Isle of Man had been given enough time to comment.

The revised version now concludes:

The Isle of Man government was not available for comment at the time of publication of this article.

So that sets the mater straight!
