

Funding the Future

In the interests of full disclosure

Published: January 12, 2026, 10:18 pm

I make a point of trying to disclose conflicts of interest, sources of funding, potential bias and so on on this blog since you can hardly argue for transparency and not do so.

So in that spirit I should disclose that I learned today that my application to formally rejoin the Quakers has been accepted. It's material to me, so I disclose it in case it is material to anyone else's understanding of what I write.