

The NHS reorganisation in a nutshell

I liked this succinct comment on the blog this morning with regard to the reorganisation of the NHS.:

Doctors are being put in charge of budgets where they have no expertise;

Service conglomerates are put in charge of diagnoses where they have no expertise;

Ratings agencies will judge hospitals where they have no expertise;

What could possibly go wrong in this evidence free reorganisation?

Nothing at all, obviously!

Now let us despair.
