HMRC must be fuming that Harry Redknapp is not guilty.

But shame on them too. The 'gift' defence on the capital going into this account must have been known to them in advance and if both sides agree is hard to beat. They did agree. So they're innocent.

But surely some undeclared income must have arisen on the account? It would be amazing if it had not. If they wanted a case why didn't they prosecute on that? Now they've lost their chance. Harry is innocent. So be it.
