The run up to the budget is always frenetic. And now it's been and gone and we know how debased the Tory's thinking is.

In that case it's time to set to work on writing the alternative. I discussed the need for that alternative in the Guardian on Friday, but if you want a job done you might as well do it yourself.

I've been threatening to write 'The Joy of Tax' for some time. I think the time has arrived.
