Nick Shaxson's Vanity Fair articles have impact. One broke the story of Mitt Romney's offshore tax affairs. And, of course, he wrote Treasure Islands. He's also a Tax Justice Network team member.

In his latest article he asks who really lives at One Hyde Park, called the world's most expensive residential building? Its mostly absentee owners, hiding behind offshore corporations based in tax havens, provide a portrait of the new global super-wealthy.
