

I think there's a technical term for an email like this...

Published: January 18, 2026, 1:32 am

---

This comes from the UK Uncut legal case:

Two things stand out.

First a senior member of the department made a mistake. It's obvious who.

And second it had to be covered up because it was embarrassing.

It's the cover up that's been the problem.

And the question is, to me, was that legal?