

Christmas greetings

The time has come to stop for Christmas. It has been a gruelling year and I need a break.

So, I suspect that I'll now take a break for a week, expecting to return on 30 December with a review of the year.

To all who read this, I hope you have a very good and not too taxing Christmas (couldn't resist that) and thanks for reading.

And PS: if I don't moderate your comments in the meantime, now you know why.
