

There are days not designed for blogging

Some days do not suit blogging.

Ones that start at 5.30am UK time in Paris before a 7.30am UK time meeting at the OECD are amongst them.

So there may be more later. I'll see how it goes. But right now it's BEPS time (that's base erosion and profit shifting).

PS And, as a quick aside - my thanks to the very many people who offered birthday greetings in Friday. I was surprised, and to be honest quite touched. It made a pleasant change from the usual grief of blogging.
