

A vote of thanks

Published: January 14, 2026, 1:43 am

Another quick update.

First, again, my thanks to all who have sent good wishes. My apologies if I have not acknowledged each individually.

Second, it's good to be home rattling full of drugs of various kinds. I now wait for the next stage that is likely to be an op.

Third, school breaks up today. I may well be taking time off too with my sons as a result and heeding some of the advice given that I relax for a week, although since not writing for me is quite stressful I suspect some blogging will get through.

Fourth, my thanks to the NHS - but I already feel a blog formulating on that one.