

A quiet hope for Greece

Published: January 13, 2026, 4:53 pm

---

No country has suffered more as a result of austerity than Greece.

In many ways no country has suffered more than Greece from abuse by the financial services industry. But for Goldman Sachs they would never have got into the Eurozone in the first place,

So let us hope that elections on Sunday bring Greece hope in the form of a rejection of austerity and the election of Syriza.

Nothing could send a clearer signal that without renegotiation of debt nothing will change in Europe. As a result the people of Greece could do us all a considerable favour this weekend.