

A holiday for the trolls

The volume of deliberate trolling on this site has considerably increased of late. I am amazed that so many have so much time to waste, but apparently they do.

It so happens that I am going to be pretty busy in the next week. That means that all moderation would, inevitably, be slow on the blog. As a result I have decided to give the trolls a holiday: I am turning moderation off for a few days to give them a break as well.
