

The Joy of Tax is getting closer

Published: January 13, 2026, 10:21 am

I have literally just finished all the main editorial changes to my new book - The Joy of Tax. That's meant rewriting two chapters this week. But now we should just be down to copy edits, which is good news as the book is now due out by 26 September.

And you can also now pre-order it, as I have noted on Waterstones, who are already offering what looks like a good deal.

It's fair to say it's the longest blog I have written, so far. But pretty much in the same style as what you're used to on this site. Technical knowledge is not required.

Having said which, I am now taking a day off, I hope.