

Job opportunity: tax research

Published: January 13, 2026, 5:25 am

I have been in discussion with an organisation that works on tax. They asked me if I knew anyone who met the following brief.

Knows the UK tax system and has probably worked in it professionally.

Knows something about accounting.

Is interested in tax policy.

Wants to create a more effective tax system.

Is open minded to a range of ideas.

Is self motivated.

Has organisational ability.

Wants to work about half time on this issue.

Will be happy with a pay rate equivalent to that of a good NGO researcher to undertake this work.

Can get to London regularly but some element of home working is possible as well.

I agreed if anyone was interested I would forward CVs or expressions of interest. Send them to me at richard.murphy[at]taxresearch.org.uk

So fire away....

And I stress, I am doing this as a favour.
