

Tonight's vital result: The Lords 10, Theresa May 0 and...

Published: January 15, 2026, 11:54 pm

---

From the Guardian blog tonight (no, not the football one - although I have an eye on that as well):

So Chris (Lord) Patten beat the government in the name of common sense, Irish peace and economic good order whilst May acted like a headless chicken and told her officials to 'go away and do something'.

The Lords amendment on this has to be right: nothing else will do and the fact is May knows it and won't admit it.

How much longer is it before we and she are put out of this misery?