

BrexitINO

The more I hear of May's deal tonight the more I think it looks like BrexitINO - Brexit In Name Only.

We're leaving.

But staying in the Customs Union.

And Single Market.

Seemingly indefinitely.

And subject to all the EU's rules as a result.

The only thing that has changed is we have lost any control.

But I strongly suspect we will be paying nonetheless.

We always knew May was a Remainer.

But not that much a Remainer.

And there is the minor hurdle of parliament to overcome.

Except it might actually comply with Labour's six tests.

We'll have to see.

But now the question is 'why do it at all in that case?'

You can see why the Brexiteers are angry.
