I am pleased to share this one, relating to an event at 6pm on 28 March at City, University of London:

Oliver Bullough is a journalist and author from Wales. He has a special interest in the former Soviet Union and financial crime, and has written several books about these issues.

His articles appear in the Guardian, the New York Times, GQ and many other publications. His latest book is Moneyland, why thieves and crooks now rule the world and how to take it back (2018), and in this talk he will discuss some of the book's key insights into financial crime and the super rich.

This session will be chaired by Richard Murphy, Professor of Practice in International Political Economy at City and expert in taxation policy and avoidance.

The event is free. You can book here.
