I have mentioned I was out and about whilst doing some thinking today. One of the things I was sketching out were the objectives of the Green New Deal. I came up with this. Comments welcome:

The objectives of the Green New Deal shall be:

- * To create a net zero carbon economy
- * To protect against habitat and biodiversity loss
- * To ensure every building in the UK is as energy efficient as feasibly possible, and generates power if that can be accommodated within its design
- * To promote public transport for all journeys, including and most especially local ones
- * To encourage the building of new low and no-carbon housing to meet social need
- * To invest in new methods of power generation, transmission and distribution
- * To encourage alternative and reduced forms of consumption that reduce the demand on the natural resources of our planet
- * To create jobs paying at least a living wage in every constituency of the United Kingdom
- * To promote apprenticeships, other training and life long skill creation in those activities undertaken as part of the Green New Deal
- * To promote the local economy in every UK region, city, town and community
- * To encourage new forms of enterprise that might deliver economic resilience within the sustainable economy
- * To encourage approaches to the use of artificial intelligence consistent with the Green New Deal
- * To encourage new ways of working consistent with the objectives of the Green New Deal

- * To promote sustainable equality, which is defined as an equal proportionate use of the available non-sustainable resources consistent with overall maintenance of the prospects of continuing life on earth of the country irrespective of the financial means of each person*
- * To reduce inequality in the UK*
- * To reduce tax abuse within the UK as a mechanism for reducing inequality, promoting social change, repricing market failure and promoting the funding mechanisms of the Green New Deal*
