

Funding the Future

Article URL

<https://www.taxresearch.org.uk/Blog/2019/07/08/blogging/>

Published: January 12, 2026, 5:33 pm

---

I quite often get asked if I am OK if I do not blog very much.

In that case I should explain that if I do not do so right now - or appear distracted from activity here - there is good reason.

I have been working on a book proposal.

And activities for the Corporate Accountability Network, including launches of ideas and fundraising for future work.

I also have four chapter to write for separate books by the end of October as I see out my existing job.

There are other activities also in progress.

And, rather annoyingly, I have to admit I am finite.

If I am distracted it is because I am quite busy. But this period of ending the old and starting the new will not last for long, thankfully. I will be back at full force sometime soon.