

Policies for a win

I have already said I will be voting tactically in any forthcoming general election.

I have indicated that I would be willing to vote for one of at least five parties in that election, dependent on where I was.

My hope is that those parties can agree on some fairly basic policy principles even if the details will differ:

- An end to No Deal
- Genuine negotiation with the EU
- A deal or remain second referendum
- An end to austerity
- A Green New Deal
- Electoral and constitutional reform
- Support for the UK's constituent nations

Is that too much to ask for?

I really hope not.
