

Using Leaver logic

I much enjoyed this comment on the blog yesterday from someone called Andrew who has been a long time contributor. I know it as tongue in cheek, and yet like all good humour it reveals a deeper truth:

What possible reason could there be for defying the manifest Will of the People as expressed at the ballot box in 2017 and calling for a general election? The People knew they were voting for a Parliament for a fixed term until 2022. Woe betide any politician who suggests that the People in their manifest wisdom got that wrong or didn't understand what they were doing.

Quite so....
