I have to report another appointment. This time I have been appointed a visiting academic at the University of Sheffield where I am working with both Prof Andrew Baker on tax spillover related issues and Prof Adam Leaver on accounting matters.

The appointment is unpaid, but the Corporate Accountability Network has an agreement with Sheffield at present to supply research support on a project that we hope might lead to suggestion for an accounting standard on reporting productivity. I am being paid on a salaried basis for that work by the CAN.
