Making video....the YouTube channel is coming

I spent this morning recording five introductory videos for my new YouTube Channel:

The Channel launches tomorrow - and each major theme gets an introductory video next week.

The overarching theme is 'Looking for the new normal'. You can guess that's not the same as the old one.

Thanks to Mark Cooney at SpottedinEly for partnering on this. I'm going to turn up and do the talking. Mark is doing everything else. I think this could be a lot of fun. And the aim is to keep everything to a limit of 4 minutes. Accessibility is going to be key to this.
