

Funding the Future

Monday morning thoughts

Published: January 14, 2026, 5:38 pm

From my Twitter account:

-  Richard Murphy @RichardJMurphy · 10m
Downing Street would have us believe we're 'going back to normal'. In the middle of a pandemic.
🗨️ 2 ❤️ 10 📤 📊
-  Richard Murphy @RichardJMurphy · 11m
Change always involves the destruction of capital. Many people in this country have no capital. Of the rest, most have had to borrow to pay for it. But that's an alien experience in Downing Street. As a result they think that the country can survive their chaotic change. We can't 🗨️ 8 ❤️ 14 📤 📊
-  Richard Murphy @RichardJMurphy · 12m
Anyone can try to manage a government whilst treating all who work for it with contempt. But you can't do that if you want to succeed.
🗨️ 3 ❤️ 5 📤 📊
-  Richard Murphy @RichardJMurphy · 13m
There is a fine line between managing a process of change and being chaotically out of control. Our government is on the wrong side of it.
🗨️ 6 ❤️ 5 📤 📊
-  Richard Murphy @RichardJMurphy · 8m
Can a government survive thousands of excess deaths from Covid-19, unemployment on a scale not seen in a lifetime and a shambolic Brexit? If so, how?
🗨️ 10 🔄 6 ❤️ 14 📤 📊
-  Richard Murphy @RichardJMurphy · 8m
I am genuinely not sure what will happen when people realise that the government intends to leave millions of those who think themselves middle class both unemployed and on almost no income, but that's going to happen. What I can say is that they're not going to be happy.
🗨️ 4 🔄 29 ❤️ 39 📤 📊
-  Richard Murphy @RichardJMurphy · 9m
Downing Street can seek to destroy devolved government and squeeze the life out of local authorities. But only if it accepts the responsibility for the failings that will follow. It hasn't understood that second bit as yet.
🗨️ 3 🔄 2 ❤️ 7 📤 📊