

The merits of a mixed economy

Published: January 19, 2026, 5:36 am

We live in a mixed economy.

For the foreseeable future - by which I mean in this case, a very long time to come - that's what we're going to do.

Political debate does not reflect that. Nor does it discuss how economic relationships between the state and private sectors need to be properly managed.

Even debate on who does what often fails to reflect the reality that almost all activity ends up as some degree of mix.

In this video I ask that we address these realities, for realities they are:

<https://youtu.be/TJ8pGtehpn0>