

Videos on hold

Normally at this time in the morning I would be posting a video here. I won't be today, or for at least the rest of the week.

Mark Cooney, with whom I make the videos, and I were meant to be filming yesterday but instead I urged him to go to A&E as he seemed pretty unwell to me and his GP would not see him until he'd had a Covid test as he had a raised temperature. I am pleased that I did, and he should be fine now he has treatment, but we're not going to be making videos for a few days.

But in the meantime, just a thought. No wonder home deaths are rising if people with temperatures are having to get a Covid test and their results before seeing a GP.
