

What we should do about taxing wealth?

Published: January 13, 2026, 3:18 pm

The Wealth Tax Commission has said a one-off wealth tax might work to redress balances in the UK economy and to raise substantial sums to address the national debt. But we don't need to address the national debt. What we do need to do is redistribute income to those who need it. In this video I explain how that could be done on a recurring and not on a one-off basis. It really isn't hard. It just requires political will.

<https://youtu.be/2IKszlcdMMI>