

Keir Starmer is becoming a problem

I had an article in the National newspaper in Scotland yesterday, published late yesterday. The opening in paragraphs said:

KEIR Starmer is beginning to worry me. Take his performance today. He has done two things, each of which is wrong in itself.

First, he has apparently told his MPs to not talk about Brexit. And then he refused to condemn Matt Hancock MP, the UK Health Secretary, for having been found to have broken the law last week when given the opportunity to do so by Sophy Ridge on Sky.

The rest is here. Since this was a paid article I cannot reproduce it in full.
