

There will be a brief intermission

Published: January 13, 2026, 6:44 am

I am working like fury on a new academic paper right now, which is taking virtually all my attention. As a working paper it may be out quite quickly, but it also means blog output may be low for a day or two. And given it is on accounting (quite radical accounting thinking, but accounting nonetheless) I suspect few will be interested in it.

Please accept my apologies.