

Writing for The National

My post analysing the FT's arguments on the viability of Scottish independence has now been reposted by The National newspaper in Scotland.

At the foot of the article there is also this comment:

Richard Murphy will be writing exclusive analysis for The National once a week from now on.

I am pleased to say that I have been invited to write a weekly comment column for The National which will usually be due out on Friday or Saturday each week.

Topics will vary. Requests are welcome, but I cannot promise to deliver on all of them, and because I will be paid for these columns I will not be able to reproduce them in full here.
