The government is not pursuing an experiment when it comes to Covid 19. It is instead pursuing right wing dogma that is indifferent to the consequences of its actions on human life.

That is why we are suffering wildly exceptional Covid rates in the UK.

That is why cases are rising when they are falling elsewhere.

That is why hospital cases are increasing.

That is why ICUs may be overwhelmed.

That is why we will suffer an epidemic of long Covid when most countries will avoid this fate.

This is all political choice.

We have the right to say this.

It should be said.

We have a right to be angry that our media is not reporting this,

We have a right to be angry that our opposition parties do not seem to be saying this. But then, the SNP and Labour are too compromised by going along with too much of this in Scotland and Wales.

We must tell the truth that people are going to die again, wholly unnecessarily.

That has to be heard, and understood. And then those who are responsible must be held accountable. Killing people is a crime, whoever does it. And it is happening now, in the UK by government choice and policy.
