

Funding the Future

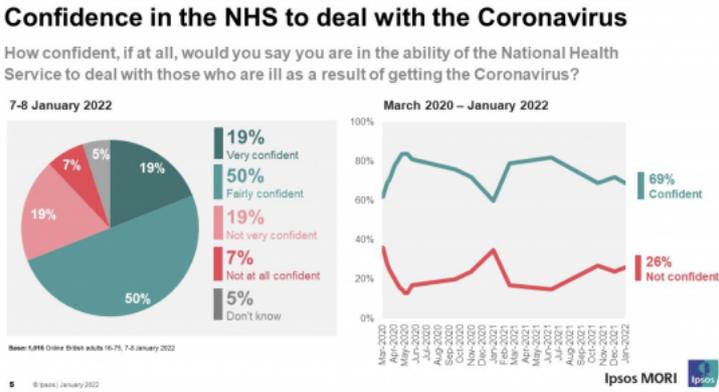

A booming recovery is off anyone's agenda right now

Published: January 14, 2026, 4:31 pm

These opinion polls were issued by Ipsos Mori yesterday embargoed until this morning and were sent to me by email. What they suggest is that people are still very worried about the impact of Covid:

What is more, they suggest that people are worried about the capacity of the NHS to treat them:

I see nothing in this to suggest that peoples concerns have been allayed, and as a consequence I see nothing that will encourage people to go out and spend. The obvious conclusion to reach is that a booming recovery is off anyone's agenda right now.