

That new book.....

Just before Christmas I hinted on this blog that I was thinking of writing a new book. The reaction was positive. Slightly surprisingly, within hours a publisher had been in touch.

Now a plan has been written and received publisher support. Contracts are now under discussion.

I should add though that although this will be a fast track book publication before very early 2023 is unlikely.

It does, however, look like I have something else to do this year.
