The print edition of 'Money for nothing and my Tweets for free' is on its way. The proofs arrived yesterday:

I have to admit that I like the way it looks:

That is how I always wanted to have a page of mine look. And I have got it.

I suspect publication will be within a week now. The price will be £4.95, which is as low as I can really make it.

Suggestions for follow-ups are also welcome. Are there topics or themes here that deserve this treatment if they can be done with reasonable economy? If so, suggest the collection - and even the content.
