I recorded this podcast with Craig Dalzell of the CoomonWeal think tank in Scotland yesterday:

As they said of it:

This week Craig talks to Prof Richard Murphy about the agreement between the Scottish and UK Government's to create two "Green Freeports" in Cromarty and Forth. They discuss the origin of Freeports, their promises of creating "jobs" in the freeport area and how those promises often end up panning out.

You can hear the whole episode, with some extra bits on the tax gap and on the madness of the Bank of England, here.
