

The Account

Plans for more organised podcasting and video production are progressing.

I am planning on two approaches right now. The use of audio is planned first. The intention is to call this The Account:

These will come in two varieties. There will be shorts and longer versions.

The shorts will be me as a talking head. The target is five minutes or less. They will tackle a single theme.

The longer ones will involve discussion and explore a theme, which could be an elaboration on a previously issued short version.

Quite separately there may be a 'Richard Murphy and friends' like 'Steve Keen and friends'.

The shorts will definitely have transcripts.

All these will appear here but will also feature on podcasting sites and YouTube.

Well, that's the plan. Let's see what happens. My producer and I are meeting again tomorrow. In the meantime, try this:
