

New glossary items

---

For reasons that I find somewhat hard to explain, but which can only imply that I am ready to return to work, yesterday afternoon's inclement weather persuaded me to write some new glossary entries. I have done far too few of late, and this project is by no means complete, as yet.

Thos written yesterday were on:

Jackson Hole

The Bank of International Settlements

Depreciation

Amortisation

Disposable income

Neoliberalism

Inequality

Are they perfect? I very much doubt it. But I hope they help.

I might try to knock out some more this week. I rather enjoy doing them.

As with all glossary items, their presence is identified by a duller than normal hyperlink.
