It's taken a while (since March 17th) but I have added another 10,000 Twitter followers, largely due to recent Twitter threads:

Elon Musk is making the use of Twitter harder and harder, which is quite absurd. Yesterday I discovered that over the last few days he ha# made posting long threads much more laborious. I will now be resorting to third party software in an attempt to ease this. But if the message does get out via this medium I will persist with it.
